ARLINGTON PROPERTY TO BE RE-ASSESSED BY OUTSIDER; RUMOR

That an article may be inserted in the Town Warrant for the annual town meeting next March asking that money be appropriated to bring an appraiser from outside to re-assess property in Arlington is being rumored about.

It is understood that a large number of taxpayers are incensed over alleged unfair valuation of property in this town and will take this step at the next Town meeting in the hope that certain property owned by a certain few people of the town might be assessed higher to bring it more equally to the real value of the property.

Those who are planning to insert the article claim that large lots of woodland which are listed merely as "woodland" are being developed and really worth far more than what they are assessed for. It is also claimed that valuable business property in Arlington is assessed far below its real value.

At the Assessors' office yesterday afternoon it was stated that the Board of Assessors had heard nothing of the proposed move.

It is claimed that if certain local property were assessed its real value and taxed accordingly it would not be necessary to ask town employees to give a voluntary contribution of ten percent from their salaries this year. Nor would it be necessary to cut all departmental budgets at least ten percent.

Whether the proposed article will be inserted in the town warrant now remains to be seen. The "cry" is nothing new since it has been heard for years from taxpayers who feel that their own property is assessed too high.

LOCAL PEOPLE AMONG NEW OFFICERS OF HEALTH ASSOCIATION

The Southern Middlesex Health Association, Inc., of 661 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington held its ninth Annual Meeting last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the North Reading State Sanatorium for children with tuberculosis.

The business meeting was held in the auditorium of the Sanatorium and reports from the different committees were heard and election of officers made. Dr. MacCorison, President of the Association, presided.

Miss Bernice Billings, Executive Secretary of the Boston Tuberculosis Association, 554 Columbus avenue, Boston, gave an interesting talk about the work of the Association, and Frank Kiernan, Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League, also spoke.

The election of the following officers took place:

MacDougall, Concord. Directors from Local Communities: Mrs. Robert Murphy, Arlington; Miss Christine Nicholson, Bedford; Mrs. T. F. Kimball, Belmont; Miss Ivanetta M. Smith, Burlington; Mrs. Ruth Robbins, Carlisle; Mrs. Thomas Todd, Concord; Mrs. John G. Pollock, Everett; Mrs. Charles H. Miles, Lexington; Miss Caroline Snelling, Lincoln; Mrs. J. E. Cunningham, Medford; Charles H. Adams, Melrose; Miss Elizabeth Batchelder, N. Reading; Mrs. C. C. White, Reading; Mrs. Catherine O. Protzman, Revere; Warren A. Perry, Somerville; Mrs. M. A. Mullahey, Stoneham; Mrs. Learoyd, Wakefield; Leroy Sweeney, Waltham; Mrs. William G. Gledhill, Waltham; Mrs. Anne Cross, Weston; Mrs. Smalley, Winchester; Mrs. H. C. Farquar, Winthrop; Bernard Peterson, Woburn; Mrs. Nina Barrows, Wilmington.

After the election supper was served and a reception for the incoming officers was held.

STATE MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS IN ARLINGTON CHURCH

One of the most interesting meetings ever held at the Universalist Church in Arlington took place yesterday when the Woman's Universalist Missionary Society of Massachusetts held a public session here.

Mrs. George E. Huntley, State President, was in the chair. The morning session was as follows:

Organ Voluntary.
Mrs. Sidney J. Sandberger, Praise Service.
Mrs. Frank N. Chamberlain, Medford, Assisted by the Ladies' Quartette.
Greetings, Mrs. Lester Collins, President of the Mission Circle.
Response, Mrs. Seth R. Brooks, Vice President of the Woman's Universalist Missionary Society of Mass.
"Notable Women of the Universalist Church," Mrs. Orville S. Waldron, Somerville.
Musical Selection, The Ladies' Quartette.
"Enlarging Friendships," Rev. Hazel I. Kirk, President of the National Missionary Association of the Universalist Church.
Many questions relative to the work of the Society were answered following Rev. Kirk's talk.
After the morning session, a Friendship Luncheon was served by the Mission Circle of the Universalist Church.
The afternoon program was as follows:
Voluntary.
Opening Hymn.
Prayer, Rev. Rubens Rea Hadley, Pastor.
Roll Call.
Offertory.
Musical Selection, Ladies' Quartette.
"A Woman in Russia," Miss Alfreda M. Mosher of the International Institute, Boston. Presented by Mrs. Leroy W. Coons, Closing Hymn.
Benediction.
Among those who had a prominent part in the meeting were Mrs. George E. Huntley, the state president; Mrs. Percy R. Moody, fifth district director; Mrs. Sidney J. Sandberger, organist; Miss Katherine Yerrinton, Mrs. Conrad Mullin, Mrs. Frank Harwood and Mrs. Edward Shinn, members of the Universalist Church ladies' quartette.

Catholic Club To Receive New Members

The West Side Catholic club will hold a reception to new members on Monday evening, in the assembly hall, of the Girls' Catholic High School, Mrs. William H. McBain is chairman of the committee.

Henry Fox, 90, Arlington Man Died Yesterday

Henry Fox, 90, retired Charlestown Municipal Court officer and former Charlestown and Boston police officer, died yesterday at his home, 106 Lake street, Arlington.

Mr. Fox retired as court officer a little more than three years ago after 41 years of service. Previous to his appointment as court officer by Judge Henry W. Briggs he had been a member of the Charlestown Police Department, which he joined April 1, 1888, when Charlestown was a separate municipality. When Charlestown became a part of Boston he continued with the Boston Police Department and was successively promoted to sergeant and lieutenant.

Mr. Fox was born in Roxbury. He was a member of old Prescott Lodge, A. O. U. W., which was later changed to Winter Hill Lodge. He was also a member of Mystic Rebekah Lodge and of Middlesex Lodge, and Bunker Hill Encampments, I. O. O. F., and a member of Charlestown Veteran Firemen's association.

He leaves a son, George E. Fox, a Boston lawyer, a daughter, Miss Edith E. Fox and two grandchildren, all of whom make their home at the Arlington address.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Dr. Shaw, pastor of the Arlington M. E. Church. There will also be an Odd Fellows' service. Burial will be in Newton cemetery, Newton.

Legion Auxiliary Members Invite Friends To Supper

The past presidents' supper of the auxiliary to Medford post, 45, the American Legion, which takes place tomorrow evening at 6:45, in the Spanish War quarters in the Riverside building, Medford square is open to friends of the members. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Florence Perrie, chairman, of 178 Fulton street, telephone, Mystic 3371. A fine program has been arranged for the evening's entertainment.

K. of C. Players Leading A. O. H. In Tournament

The 45s tournament between Arlington Council, K. of C., and Division 23, A. O. H., teams for the championship of the town continued Monday night with games played in K. of C. Hall, on Mystic street. The K. of C. players got a big lead Monday night and are now leading by 15 games. The score last night was K. of C. 73, Hibernians 52. There was one postponed series of 25 games to be played off and after the regular matches this was played the K. of C. team taking 17 of the 25 games and adding to their grand total. The grand total to date is K. of C. 570, Hibernians 555. There have been 1125 games played to date. The high men in the regular games were James McGarry, Harry Kelley and Luke Donahue of the K. of C. teams.

Ranny Weeks To Come Here

Ranny Weeks will positively appear at the Arlington Pals' dance Friday night. It is understood that he has been singing in New York but James Knox reached him by phone Monday and "Ranny" says he will be here in person at the Pals' dance.

Couple Files Intentions

Marriage intentions were filed at the office of town clerk E. Caroline Pierce in Arlington yesterday by George C. MacLeod, 16 Chandler street, Arlington, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacLeod and Miss Helen A. Cumming, of 12 Ashland street, Medford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Cumming.

To Organize P-T Association Today

A meeting will be held at the Brackett School this afternoon at 3:35 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a parent-teacher association. The object of this association is to bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training and education of the children of this community.

Any one interested in such an organization is cordially invited to be present.

Refuse To Allow Large Billboard

Because a sign fifty feet by twelve feet is contrary to the rules regulating billboards in Arlington, the board of selectmen has turned down the application for a permit to put up a large billboard of this size at 1179-81 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington Heights. The property is occupied by Emo's Drug store.

Lexington

Fletcher W. Taft, local newspaperman, was the speaker at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Hancock School Monday evening in the school auditorium. A social hour and entertainment followed the talk.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Munroe School met Monday evening in the school hall, the speakers being Miss Florence Barnard, on "Budgeting Your Money," and Supt. of Schools Thomas S. Grindle, on "School Budgeting."

At the close of the meeting of Lexington Court, C. D. of A. Monday evening in K. of C. Hall, Waltham street, a penny sale was held.

The High School basketball team meets Winchester High here this afternoon at 3 in the Middlesex County League series.

CITIZEN'S COMMITTEE

The Arlington Citizens' Committee held a meeting last evening and possible candidates for various town offices were given consideration. The meeting was a preliminary session and was not open to the public. Charles Sawyer, Ernest Hesseline, Jr., and Malcolm Dodge are among the prominent members of the committee which will endorse certain candidates for election here next March.

Champ on Bermuda Buggy Ride

Clad in immaculate whites, Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion of the world, is pictured as he enjoys the life of the "idle rich" at Hamilton, Bermuda, where he is spending a vacation with Mrs. Sharkey. The Boston Gob isn't worrying much right now about defending the title he won from Max Schmeling. He's all ready for a ride along the shore in one of Bermuda's quaint horse carriages.

REGENT THEATRE'S OFFER TO RUN SHOWS FOR NEEDY REFUSED

The Town of Arlington will not have Sunday movies for some time if the board of selectmen has any say in the matter—and incidentally it has because it is up to that board to approve any request for a permit which is then granted by the State.

As a matter of fact, the board sent a letter to E. M. Lowe, of the Liberty Amusement company yesterday thanking him for his offer of the Regent theatre in Arlington for Sunday performances the proceeds from which would be turned over to the welfare department. And at the same time the board refused to accept the offer.

This is the second time that the selectmen have turned down a similar offer. Some time ago, Manager James Knox of the Regent theatre offered the selectmen the use of his theatre for Sunday shows and the matter was never taken up by the selectmen. Manager Knox in making the offer felt that the town would save a substantial sum that could be used for the welfare department which is sadly in need of money and at the same time would help to keep business in Arlington.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD MAKING SURVEY OF THREE GREAT FIELDS

(Editor's Note: Yesterday's Daily News contained the first of a series of articles on the work of the Massachusetts Industrial and Development Commission. It was explained how it came about that the Commission was appointed. In the second article today the work of the Commission in promoting and stimulating the three fields of endeavor, namely, industry, agriculture and recreation—is explained. The third article appears in tomorrow's News.)

One of the first duties entered upon by the Commission was to sponsor a comprehensive survey of farms in the Connecticut Valley. Much had been said up to that time about the growing tendency of the "consuming public to demand varieties of onions other than those grown in Massachusetts. The survey set out to determine the most profitable types of farming in that section of the Commonwealth, and the reasons therefor, to ascertain what changes, if any, were taking place within that area, and to gather specific information relative to onion production market practices and consumer demands. The survey showed that consumer taste was not changing nor was the flavor of the Connecticut Valley onion objected to. It was found that the reason that approximately 50 per cent of all onions used in Massachusetts came from the western states was because of the lack of proper grading of the Connecticut Valley product. Many buyers stated that they would return to the local product if the grades were improved. Thus in this survey alone, this Commission more than justified the expense involved by pointing out to these taxpaying farmers of Massachusetts that they could prosper by re-establishing public confidence in their produce by more careful grading, by selling only the highest quality product and possibly by marketing cooperatively.

In 1931, this Commission arranged for an agricultural market survey. It is a generally accepted fact that Massachusetts people consume a vast amount of farm products brought in from other states many of which might be supplied by our own farms, but no comprehensive investigation had ever been made previously to ascertain the movement into and out of the State of some of the principal farm products we can and do raise. The Commission felt that information of this kind would be of immense value to our agriculturists, and so authorized this piece of research. The report brought out the economic importance of Massachusetts agriculture and included the more pertinent data relative to the production, distribution and consumption of the various products.

It is obvious to even the casual observer of traffic on our highways during the summer seasons that tourists from all points of the compass visit this State having as their ultimate destination some point within the Commonwealth or in some other new England state. For the purpose of gathering approximate data as to the states where this traffic originates, an enumeration was made during the months of July and August 1930, to determine the number of out-of-state cars entering the Commonwealth over the principal trunk highways, together with the states from which they came. According to an estimate based on this survey, over a million and a quarter out-of-state cars entered Massachusetts during that period, carrying nearly four million passengers. Cars from 45 out of the 48 states were actually observed and recorded, as well as cars from the District of Columbia, seven Canadian, distribution and consumption.

SELECTMEN TO CUT DOWN EXPENSES IN OWN DEPARTMENT

Arlington Police Team To Meet Belmont Police

The Arlington police department pistol team, coached by Sergeant Edwin C. Jacobs, will meet the Belmont police team on Wednesday evening, January 25, as the result of a challenge accepted by Sergeant Jacobs. The match will be held on the Arlington police headquarters' indoor range.

The pistol teams of the Police Department and the Arlington Rifle Club had a close contest on the police range Monday night, with the police nosing out a victory, 469 to 467. The match was very even all the way through. A 98 out of a possible 100 by Zwinck of the police team pulled the police through. The high man of the evening was Zwinck, with 98, with his teammate, Thomas Pigott a close second, with 97. Kennedy of the Rifle Club team was high for his team with 96. The summary: Police team, Sgt. Jacobs 93, Kette 92, Pigott 97, Scanlan 89, Zwinck 98. Total 469. Rifle Club, Keddy 96, Hart 92, Winn 93, Tunney 92, Nickerson 94. Total 467.

Arlington Board Doing Everything Possible To Cut Down Budget Within Its Department—Practically All Items and Departments Under Direct Supervision of Board Cut From Ten To Twenty Per Cent—Appropriation for Charities To Be Higher However—Reserve Fund

The budgets for the various departments under the direct supervision of the Arlington board of selectmen are receiving considerable pruning as a result of the combined efforts of the board of selectmen and the subcommittee of the Finance Committee assigned to work on these particular items.

At the meeting of the board this week, the budgets as originally submitted by various department officials under the supervision of the selectmen were reduced ten to twenty percent from the amounts asked last year.

The department budgets which have been cut down include: Board of appeal; selectmen's own budget; inspector of buildings; inspector of animals; town meetings and elections; police department; fire department; police and fire alarm signals; insurance; Memorial Day celebration; Patriots' Day celebration; Workmen's insurance compensation; moth extermination; town accountant and pensions.

While these items and department budgets have been cut down, it is necessary to increase the amount to be asked for charities this year. This will include: Welfare department; old age assistance; soldiers' relief; state and military aid.

By making such cuts in these various items and departments, the town is running a risk that the money appropriated for the various departments under the direct supervision of the selectmen, as well as other independent departments, will not be sufficient to carry through the entire year. For this reason it is expected that a request will be made for a larger reserve fund so that if any department runs out of money before the end of the year, it will be fairly easy to carry on by getting money from this fund.

As for some of the cuts, of course, it is expected that once they are made it will not be necessary to go to the reserve fund for more money. For instance, the insurance account. The selectmen have arranged with the insurance company handling policies covering all town property whereby less insurance will be carried on town property this year. It is felt that decreased valuation of town property, taken as a whole, makes it advisable to cut down the amount paid for insurance. This was decided a few weeks ago and now the amount to be paid for this item is settled for the year.

Boy Is Struck By Automobile

Knocked down after he had run into the front fender of an automobile, Fred Kling, age 9, of 92 Varnum street, Arlington escaped apparently without any injury yesterday afternoon.

Local Boy Takes West Point Exam

Herman Nickerson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nickerson of 184 Appleton street, Arlington Heights was among the twenty-seven youths who took Senator Marcus A. Coolidge's examination for West Point last Saturday. The examination was held in the Custom House, Boston.

Young Nickerson is very popular locally. He graduated from Arlington High School and then enrolled at Boston University. College of Business Administration where he is now a sophomore.

Looking Inside

Well, that good "Kyrock" has busted up.

So has the surface of several other streets.

In other words a street is only as good as its foundation.

Saw a photographer taking pictures on Warren street after the cracks came—suppose it was some fellow who wanted to show his product was better—but did he take pictures of the clay below the few inches of stone surface?

Better use about 6 inches of rock below that "Kyrock" next time.

Can't blame Palmolive if you will eat pickles.

ATHLETE IS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN ACCIDENT

John R. ("Dinty") McNamara, former assistant football coach at Fordham and well-known athlete, was seriously injured early yesterday morning when the automobile he was driving went off the road and hit a tree.

McNamara was driving along Waltham street toward Lexington and when at the point known as Scotts Hill, the machine suddenly shot for the opposite side of the street and hit a tree. McNamara was picked up by some passing truckmen, whose names have not been learned as yet, and rushed to the Waltham Hospital.

Here it was found that he had a possible fracture of the skull, broken jaw and badly cut nose. X-ray pictures were taken immediately on his arrival at the hospital, and until the plates are developed the full extent of the injuries cannot be ascertained. The automobile was badly wrecked.

McNamara is well known throughout Greater Boston and in college athletics. As a member of the Boston College football and baseball squads he made a name for himself by his brilliant playing. He was graduated in 1927. Later he played the outfield for the Boston Braves and then went to Fordham as assistant football coach, holding that position until the end of the past season. His home is at 2377 Massachusetts avenue, Lexington.

Arlington A. A. Is Set For League Opener Tonight

Charles Crocco's Arlington Athletic association basketball quintet is set for its first league game in the Paul Revere league this evening when it meets the fast Lexington Minute Boys in Junior High East Gym.

A record crowd is expected to be on hand to see the local boys play on the Arlington court. The Arlington A. A. team has been playing sensationally all this season winning every game it has played thus far. Another reason why a big crowd is sure to be on hand tonight is the fact that Lexington Boys are leading the league so a real battle is expected.

In addition to the main game, the second team of the Arlington A. A. which is as colorful as the first-string men will also be seen in action. So, remember the—Junior High East gymnasium tonight.

Six Widows of Ex-Presidents Now Survive

Death of Calvin Coolidge Removed Last of Former Chief Executives and Added One More to List of White House Widows.

With the death of her distinguished husband, the last ex-President of the United States, Grace Goodhue Coolidge, nobly bearing the weight of her sorrow, joined the list of First Ladies who have survived their illustrious husbands. Before the death of ex-President Coolidge there were five widows of former Presidents still living—Mrs. Coolidge makes six. In addition there are Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, 61, but strikingly handsome; Mrs. William Howard Taft, 72, who lives a life of complete retirement in the capital; Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, 71, but still bristlingly loyal to the Grand Old Party; Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, 75, who campaigned for President Hoover in the last election; and Mrs. Thomas Jex Preston, widow of President Grover Cleveland, the only White House widow to remarry. Since the death of Mr. Coolidge there has been much discussion and theorizing as to the reason why our Chief Executives are so short-lived after retirement from office. It has been said that we kill our Presidents with work. And proponents of the idea point to the fact that former First Ladies outlive their mates by many years. However, the most probable lies in the differences of ages. Almost all of the White House widows were many years younger than their husbands.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Although no ex-Presidents of the United States are now living, the death of Calvin Coolidge having removed the last, six widows of former Chief Executives survive, and are apparently hale and hearty.

In addition to Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, the last to be added to the illustrious list, there are the widows of Presidents Wilson, Taft, Roosevelt, Cleveland and Harrison. All pass a tranquil existence in the privacy of their homes, remaining out of the public spotlight as much as possible.

Since the death of former President Coolidge, there has been much discussion and theorizing as to the reason why our Chief Executives are so short-lived after retirement from office. It has been said that we kill our Presidents with work, and proponents of that idea point to the fact that former First Ladies outlive their illustrious husbands for many years, in most cases.

It is quite feasible that these women survive their husbands because the strain of the White House weighs more heavily upon Presidents than upon their wives. But the more probable explanation lies in the difference of ages.

Mrs. Coolidge was six years younger than her husband, and the former Mrs. Cleveland was born 27 years after Grover Cleveland.

Three former First Ladies were second wives. Mrs. Benjamin Harrison was the niece of the 23rd President's first wife; Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt married the great "T. R." after the death of his first wife, Alice Lee Roosevelt, who was the mother of Alice Roosevelt Longworth, known as "Princess Alice"; and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson became the White House bride of the war-time President in the latter part of his second term. She was his second mate.

Only one former First Lady, the widow of President Grover Cleveland, remarried. In 1912 she was wed to Thomas Jex Preston, Jr., retired professor or archaeology at Princeton University. When the former Mrs. Cleveland presided at the White House, her youthful, sweet and charming manner, to all who called at the executive mansion earned her the title of the "nation's darling."

Although the former First Ladies avoid the public spotlight as much as possible, some of them occasionally emerge from seclusion to take part in a national issue, as was the case when Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, stately, and looking much younger than her 75 years, campaigned for President Hoover in the last election. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, too, who customarily spends her time secluded in her peaceful home at Oyster Bay, L. I., came out to fight for her beloved Republican Party in the recent campaign. Despite her 71 years, Mrs. Roosevelt flew to Washington to attend the ceremonies incident to Hoover's acceptance of the nomination.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, now 61, still takes a keen interest in the doings of the Democratic Party. She resides in Washington, clinging to the scene of her greatest glory and happiness where she became a bride. Mrs. Wilson makes frequent pilgrimages to the grave of her illustrious husband. Occasionally rumors of another marriage crop up, but they are always proven unfounded.

Mrs. William Howard Taft, 72, also resides in the capital, which she rarely leaves. However, she did journey to New Haven, Conn., last November to cast her ballot for President Hoover.

BEHIND THE MASK

Featuring JACK HOLT

Novelization by arrangement with COLUMBIA PICTURES

The activities of a dope ring had stirred the country, and government agents were exerting every possible effort to locate the leaders who proved to be as tangible as a shadow. The system of smuggling dope into the country was perfect and the organization worked so efficiently that as fast as a government agent unearthed a clue, he mysteriously disappeared.

The public arose in protest against the activities of the ring, and a citizens' committee, headed by Dr. Alec Munnell, a successful surgeon and man prominent in social and civic affairs, was organized to work with the government in suppressing the ring. To speed matters up, Dr. Munnell, as chairman of the committee, offered $25,000 for the capture of the leader of the gang. He worked tirelessly in an effort to assist Captain Hawkes, head of the Narcotic Bureau. Each day they were closeted together going over the ground and laying plans for the capture of the members of the ring.

"We ought to get them this time," Hawkes declared. "With Burke working outside close to Arnold, and Dr. Munnell working on the inside in prison, we should make great headway in a short time now."

"So Hart's working in jail is he?" Dr. Munnell inquired with keen interest. "That's a shrewd move."

"It certainly is. Hart's getting next to Henderson, who was framed by the ring. They are cell mates, you know, and Hart should be able to get some worthwhile tips."

"It looks as though we were getting the matter well in hand," Dr. Munnell was thoughtful. "Hart should be released before long now."

"No," The Captain laughed. "We don't do business that way. Hart will make a jail break. That will give him in and take away our suspicion from him. After he is out, we've arranged to have Henderson sprung."

While the Captain and Dr. Munnell were discussing plans for the rounding up of the ring, Hart, in prison was having an interesting chat with Henderson, the man who was during the recreation period in the yard, and the two men were sitting by the wall, away from the guards and unobserved by them. Henderson was idly fingering pebbles. He looked to either side cautiously and then turned to Hart. "Now, get this," he said guardedly. "The man name is Arnold. If you get away with it and reach the house, be sure and ask for him. Don't talk to anybody else. If you line up with us, there'll be a lot of dough in it for you. Now when you see Arnold, just tell him I sent you. He'll take care of you."

"Fine, Henderson, thanks."

"Yah—but I wish you weren't in such a rush to screw out here," Henderson became pleading in his tone. "If you'd only wait a while, I wouldn't have to send you to Arnold. I'd take you there myself."

"I'm not going to wait," Hart was determined. "I'm going to make a break today. It's all set."

Henderson stared at the man. His tone was low, but vehement. "You're crazy! When I leave here, I walk out the front door, shake the Warden's hand and promise to go and sin no more."

"When's all this going to happen?" Hart asked skeptically, feeling certain that Henderson was in for quite a spell longer.

"When I'm sprung — any day now."

"And who's going to spring you?" "The guy I'm lined up with."

Hart watched the man closely. He affected skepticism. "Who's that?"

"Even if I knew, I wouldn't tell you. And don't ask me. Not of you know. Not till we try to cross him. Then we find out—but it's too late."

"Don't expect me to fall for that bedtime story," Hart scoffed. "I'm not going to wait to be sprung by a guy who don't exist."

The bell rang and the men arose to their feet.

"I don't make Arnold's house tonight."

"You'll make a slab in the prison morgue in the morning," Henderson finished the sentence for him. "One or the other."

Hart was having an interesting chat with Henderson. (Posed by Jack Holt and Boris Karloff)

Service," Hart smiled as a flash of lightning lighted up the scene and a deafening crash of thunder shook the air. "The less you know, the less you have to tell."

"Who are you after?"

"Did you ever hear of a man called X?"

"Oh, that's the narcotics case that Burke's working on. Say, who is this X guy?"

"Listen, I've spent the last six months in a cell with a fellow who works for him. He doesn't know who he is. How do you expect me to know?"

"There's the house," Gorman pointed out an attractive residence with gabled windows and vine covered walls. Several windows showed lights, indicating that the residents were still up.

Arnold was at the moment standing before his desk in the library answering the phone. His face went pale and there was terror in his eyes.

"No, that's impossible—I can't do it," he cried. "I told you, Burke, not to call me here any more. Man, you know the spot I'm in! What do you want me to do—get into trouble?"

There was a pause as Arnold listened. His eyes caught a shadow under the closed door which led to the foyer. Someone was listening to the conversation.

"I can't—I can't tell you anything! It's out of the question!" Arnold silently replaced the receiver on the hook and then said, "Just a minute." Stealthily he stole to the door and threw it open. There stood Edwards, his housekeeper, a spin-like woman. "Edwards—if you'd rather, I'll make stenographic reports of my phone conversations in the future. It will save you the trouble of listening in."

In a dead voice, Edwards replied. "That won't be necessary. I do as I'm told."

"I'm sick of your spying and I won't have it!"

"You know where my orders come from," Edwards turned and went in the direction of her own room as she said, "Julie, Arnold's daughter, joined her father unobserved by the vigilant housekeeper, who was intent upon making her report to the mysterious X."

"Sneaking old witch!" Arnold exclaimed. "I'd like to go in there, and strangle her!"

"Has long ago you going to put up with it, father?" Julie inquired. "Why don't you leave here?"

"I'd give everything I own if I could!" Arnold was heavily wilted. "I wish I knew where he was, but, only death, and he wasn't prepared for that."

HEAVY SCORING SALEM QUINTET OVERCOMES MEDFORD FIVE BY HUGE MARGIN

oe Gallo and Jerry McDonald Factors In Salem High Overwhelming Basketball Victory—Visitors Show Superiority From The Start—Diminutive and Speedy Bob Rustigian Opens Scoring For Home Team—Seconds Make Up For First Team Defeat By Winning 16-9

The Salem High basketball team continued on its unbeaten trail by walloping the Medford team, 16-9, on the Medford court yesterday afternoon. The second team topped the first team by a huge margin.

The main attraction was quite interesting and the basketball played was far from smooth, being exceptionally rough in some spots. Personal fouls were called in quick succession, mostly against the Medford boys, which slowed up the contest considerably.

Salem proved its superiority in the outset when Bill Peckham tipped in a corner shot and shortly afterwards tossed in a pair of free throws to put his team four points to the good. From that point on the final result was never in doubt and it was only a question as to how high a tally the invaders would record.

"Jumping Joe" Gallo, sometimes called "Gluefingers," and lean Jerry McDonald, a portly, formed the main combination in the Salem attack and between them they divided the scoring honors for the afternoon, each chucking in eight points, most enough to win the contest by themselves. When not driving the leather at the netting both boys busied themselves in other ways, Gallo displaying some nifty passing and McDonald doing a great job covering the Medford forwards who attempted to dribble into scoring position.

Witches Lead
Salem led at the end of the first period, 13-3 and increased its margin to 21-5 at halftime. The Witches held a comfortable 9-9 lead at the end of the third period.

Although Salem held the upper hand throughout the first five minutes of play a low score appeared probable but the clan of Glen O'Brien let out a terrific surge in the closing three minutes of that chapter to score nine points. Teddy Olbrych increased the lead to 6-1 on a pretty backboard after taking a well-timed pass from McDonald and then allowed up on his own rebound to count a second time within a minute. Gallo dropped in a free throw and McDonald sent home a nice overhead offering from an extreme corner.

Rustigian Counters
The diminutive Bob Rustigian broke through for Medford's first basket of the afternoon but he loose-jointed Gallo retaliated with another from the corner just before the gun roared to end the period.
The second period was a hectic one with Salem scoring just enough to keep well in front and Medford again being held scoreless until the closing minutes. Rustigian, for a second time, being the boy to come through with a basket shortly before the teams left the court at halftime.

Salem Subs
Throughout the second half Coach O'Brien shifted his Salem lineup several times to allow every player on the squad to get into action but against the substitute aggregation the local quintet was able to do nothing in a scoring way.
The Medford second team, an all Sophomore outfit being groomed by Coach Eddie Brooks for varsity play next winter, took command early in the first period of the preliminary game and never trailed the Salem seconds. Eddie Fields was high scorer with eight points. The summaries:

Celtics Whip West Medford By Score 41-23

The undefeated Medford Celtics kept their slate clean by walloping the West Medford A. C. at the High School gym 41-23. With Capt. Billy Bowen scoring freely the Celtics jumped into the lead in the early stages of the game. At the half the Celtics led 21-16.

Crane of West Medford played a smart game for the losers scoring a total of 9 points for his club.

Billy Bowen with 11 points, 5 floor goals and a foul shot, led the winners. Dick Dealy and W. Bowen had 8 points each.

Louie Saenz and Dud Miller played a great game for visitors at defense. The summary:

The West Medford A. A. is planning a series of pool, billiard, ping-pong, checker and bridge tournaments after which it is expected that the winners of these contests will play other clubs in Greater Boston as one unit against the representatives of the other organizations.

Community Group To Present "The Lucky Break"

The Malden Community Theatre, a newly formed dramatic group in Malden, is attracting much favorable comment from the residents of Melrose, Malden and Medford. This group, under the able direction of Everett C. Rea, well known coach, is planning to present three or four worthwhile and entertaining plays each year.

This organization hopes to give the people of Malden and nearby communities the type of play they like to see.

Their second production, a rollicking three act farce entitled "The Lucky Break", is to be given Feb. 7th, at the Malden High School hall, at 8 o'clock.

Tickets are available from any member of the cast, or from the secretary, Miss Mary Harrison, 49 Boylston street, Malden.

SURPRISE PARTY

MILK CAN ESCAPE

ILLUSION:
One of Houdini's most spectacular escape feats was performed with a huge milk can filled with water. He invited persons of the audience to bring padlocks and lock him into the can. He got into the can, the lid was put on and fastened with several padlocks. A screen was placed in front of the can. Assistants stood by with stop watches and fire axes to save him from drowning after a certain time. About a minute later, the screen was removed, Houdini was seen panting and dripping...the padlocks remaining intact!

EXPLANATION:
The usual method of escaping from a milk can is as follows: The lid of the can is apparently securely padlocked to the lower portion, but actually the metal band to which the staples are attached is the top of a short inner lining. The performer, after being locked into the can, pushes the lid upward with his head and the short inner lining is forced out of place, permitting his escape. The screen is then removed.

NO TRICKS

TOBACCOS
IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED
...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising!
Let's look at one of its greatest illusions...that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior "FLAVOR."
THE EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring...the blending of various tobaccos...and the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is the most important. Artificial flavoring can never wholly disguise the poor flavor of cheap tobaccos.

The blending of several cheap, raw tobaccos cannot improve the flavor of any of them. A fine cigarette is a cigarette blended from costly, ripe tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why the Camel flavor has never been rivaled...why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

In more costly tobaccos lies the secret of Camels' delicate "bouquet"...of their rich, cool flavor...of their non-irritating mildness.

It's the tobacco that counts.

All the natural goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh and rich for you by the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it. Its moisture-proof cellophane also protects your Camels from dust and germs. Put a pack in your pocket today.

GIVE THE BOYS A BREAK

Few people apparently realize that Arlington boasts of a fine group of young men who are now putting on basketball exhibitions which are receiving praise from all sides, including the Boston press. This group is the Arlington Athletic Association.

The Association this year has a basketball team which has won every game played thus far. It has beaten such well known teams as the Harvard Housing Five and the Quincy Wanderers. Tonight, the local team goes after another objective in playing its first game of the Paul Revere League. The opponents will be the Lexington Minute Boys and the game will be played right here in Arlington at Junior High East.

The price of admission is remarkably low since the Association is satisfied if it can merely clear expenses. The boys are showing a fine spirit in doing this and for this reason if for no other they should be encouraged. They are giving their time to provide entertaining sports for local people. It is true that these amateurs are getting a kick out of the game but it is also a fact that the majority could get better financial returns if they played for certain other teams. But they are loyal to Arlington and prefer to represent a local team.

So, why not give them a break and attend their local games which are played at Junior High East. The few hours spent there will be a relief from usual business worries and everyday activities.

Daddy Sunshine Club Rules

1. Be kind and helpful to others.
2. Look both ways when crossing streets.
3. Always be kind to dumb animals.
4. Write a letter to Daddy Sunshine, or have Mother or Dad write it for you, every now and then.
5. Try to bring a "Ray of Sunshine" into the lives of your parents and others every day of the week and every week of the year.

These rules are not very difficult for good girls and boys to keep. Most of them are kept by them anyway. Mail your letters and stories to Daddy Sunshine, in care of this paper. He will answer them in the Daddy Sunshine Column.

Write on but one side of the paper, and place your age and address on the letter after your name. Give the day, month and year of your birth.

To join the club all you have to do is promise to keep the rules—and keep them.

John Kelly Joins

Dear Daddy Sunshine:
 I would like to become a member of your club. This is my first letter. I am seven years old and I am in the third grade of St. Joseph's school.
 I have a bird named Peter. He wakes me up in the morning singing and when he has his bath, my mother lets him out of the cage. He sees himself in the mirror and thinks it is another bird. He does all kinds of tricks in front of the mirror.

John Kelly,
 227 Salem Street,
 Medford, Mass.

Was most pleased to hear from you again Dorothy and hope you like the show when you attend it. Write again, soon.

Miss Slattery To Speak At Mystic Forum

Miss Margaret Slattery, America's outstanding woman orator, noted lecturer and author, will be the speaker next Sunday at the community forum meeting in the Mystic Congregational church. Miss Slattery has been one of the most influential public lecturers for the past 22 years in the schools, colleges and summer institutes of America. Her influence among young people is very remarkable, and wherever she speaks in public schools or at student conferences, throngs of young people gather to hear her. Miss Slattery has the same appealing power with adults and she is always greeted by crowded houses.

Miss Slattery is a student of national and international affairs, and has spent many summers in Europe studying European affairs. The Mystic church counts itself fortunate to be able to offer the citizens of Medford the opportunity of hearing this noted woman.

Miss Slattery will speak on the subject "The Cynic Knocks At Your Door." These forum meetings are attracting large numbers of citizens each Sunday evening, and the Mystic church is very much encouraged with the splendid support which is being given to this form of religious education.

North Medford And Company E Ready For Tonight's Game

Both North Medford and Company E are ready for their basketball game tonight at the Armory. The two teams are fairly well matched and should provide many thrills for the lovers of the sport who will be in attendance at the contest tonight.

Company E seconds will take on the Devil Club of Malden in the preliminary game.

COURT REGINA WHIST

Court Regina, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold the second in a series of bridge and whist parties this evening at Knights of Columbus home. Mrs. John F. Hackett is chairman of the committee, assisted by Mrs. John J. Husband and Mrs. Katherine Rhoades. The proceeds will be for charity.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD

dian provinces, Porto Rico, Alaska, Canal Zone and three foreign countries other than Canada. By means of this survey, conducted at moderate expense, the taxpayers of our resort sections are saved the great waste of misdirected advertising. By means of this research the Commission has discovered just which states are most important to the prosperity of those of our taxpayers who depend for their livelihood on the so-called "summer trade." Every tourist dollar that can be attracted to Massachusetts produces an actual increase in our wealth, and not merely a redistribution of it within the Commonwealth. Four million out-of-state tourists each summer bring into the Commonwealth untold millions of dollars to be spent for food, lodging, gasoline, oil, garage service and incidentals. The few dollars spent by this Commission to conduct researches for the presentation of this vast industry against the active competition of neighboring states is indeed a wise investment.

Three Fields Studied

Thus in the three fields of endeavor which the Massachusetts Industrial and Development Commission is designed to promote and stimulate—industry, agriculture and recreation—it has conducted serious researches, the value of which will grow as time goes on. The Commission has created a solid foundation for future growth and has collected many facts that will permit it to get the greatest value from every dollar it spends, without the danger of waste that would result from misdirected effort, unguided by research.

The act of the General Court which created this Commission specified that in addition to research, this body "shall seek to coordinate the activities of unofficial bodies organized for the promotion of the industrial, agricultural and recreational interests in the Commonwealth."

As in the case of research, the Commission considered coordination among those unofficial bodies concerned with industry as most important to the prosperity and general welfare of the Commonwealth.

In industry there are two great groups of organizations—those organized to promote the welfare of labor and those organized to assure the profitable utilization of capital. It is vitally essential that these two great groups act in harmony for their own prosperity and for the general good of the Commonwealth.

Help Labor, Capital

The Commission feels that the greatest service it could render to the people of Massachusetts was to coordinate the activities of labor and capital. It was of the further opinion that this could be best accomplished by bringing together representatives of these groups at times when industrial relations were harmonious and the minds of both parties were in a receptive and cooperative mood. The Commission consequently arranged for several conferences between labor representatives and manufacturers.

At these meetings there have been free and frank yet amicable discussions of industrial conditions in Massachusetts and of the causes which have tended to handicap some of our industries in competition with those of other states having longer hours of labor, lower taxes, less restrictive legislation, lower wage scales and other factors affecting production costs. The equalization of these conditions between industrial states is a matter of concern to both employer and employee.

The conferences have served as a medium for the exchange of viewpoints on industrial relations and the probable effects upon industry of legislative bills proposed for enactment. The plan of holding such conferences has been commended by those who have attended, and although the results cannot be measured statistically, it is believed that these meetings have been productive of good results. It is conceded that an official state body such as this Commission can furnish an atmosphere of mutual trust and confidence which is so essential to the success of conferences of this nature.

The Commission realizes that manufacturers in this State are faced with many serious problems even under normal conditions of business. In order to appreciate fully the economic factors affecting certain of our more important industries and to guide the Commission in formulating and development policy, this body arranged for conferences of shoe manufacturers and of tanners. These gatherings were well attended and resulted in a better understanding of the problems affecting these industries.

At the present time this Commission is holding conferences to devise ways and means of improving conditions in the fishing industry of Massachusetts which is being faced with many unfavorable economic factors. The Massachusetts Fisheries Association, shipowners, captains and those interested in the marketing of sea food are cooperating with the Commission in this matter. As a result of these conferences committees have been appointed to study in detail methods by which foreign competition may be equalized, the consumption of fish increased by educational means, and the products of the Massachusetts fisheries branded or identified so that consumers will insist upon the local product. These conferences are still in progress and it is believed by leaders in this industry that they will result in definite accomplishments that will be beneficial to the industry.

Girl Scouts To Receive Badge Honors

The West Medford troops, Troops 2, 3, 10, and 14, will hold a get-together on Thursday, Jan. 19th, at the West Medford Congregational church at 10 o'clock. At this meeting, Scouts Evelyn and Edith Rodgers of Lincoln, will speak on "Our Chale", which is the name of the International Girl Scout camp in Switzerland. These girls are cousins of Scout Dorothy Hatchelder of Troop 10, attended the Swiss Chale this summer with the donor, Mrs. James J. Storow, who is their Captain in Lincoln. Second class badges and Merit badges won to date, will also be awarded at this gathering by Mrs. R. F. Hayes.

Delegates for the eGirls' conference to be held in Cambridge the weekend of Feb. 4th and 5th, are now being chosen. Ten girls will represent Medford's 400 Scouts at this Conference, besides Gertrude Elliott, Troop 6, who is one of the speakers at the Morning Session, and Mary Guido, Troop 6, who is a member of the Girls' Committee which plans and runs the Conference. Both these girls are Seniors at Medford High School, Radcliffe and Harvard College have opened their doors to the Girl Scouts for this occasion and sessions will be held at Agassiz House, Radcliffe and Sanders Theatre, Harvard. Delegates appointed to date are as follows: — Barbara Kendall, Troop 3, Amy Wild, Troop 8, Helen Kelleher, Troop 6, Arlene Ackerberg, Troop 10, Charlotte Arne, Troop 7, Evelyn Nelson, Troop 6, Caroline Brownlow, Troop 1, Marjorie Allen, Troop 6 for Troop 12.

At the meeting of the Leaders' Association on Tuesday evening, Jan. 17th, Miss Sawyer and Miss Seymour of the Children's Museum, Jamaica Plain, spoke to the leaders on the presentation of nature in the troops and showed some very interesting movies.

Merit Badge courses starting this season have taken a domestic turn; Cook has begun with Mrs. Abbott Allen as instructor, and two courses of Laundress, one under Mrs. Everett Stone, and one under Mrs. W. E. Farnham; courses are beginning with the next weeks in Housekeeper, Needlewoman, Dressmaker and Home Nurse.

Troop Notes

Troop 1—Mrs. Earl Marshall, captain. At the last meeting the scouts worked on Compass, Signaling, Height, Weight and Distance. Several of the girls go to the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. for swimming. Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. F. H. Allen entertained the troop mothers at her home and plans were made to form a Troop committee.

Troop 2—Josephine Shaw, captain. Work has begun on the Child Nurse Merit badge. The troop will hold a dance on Saturday January 28th at 7.30 p. m. at the Medford Women's Club House.

Troop 7—with Marjorie Bean, captain, is sewing for the Red Cross. Vera Costa is a new member of the troop. In the absence of Capt. Bean who expects to be gone several weeks on a visit in Washington, D. C. the troop will be in charge of Charlotte Arne.

Troop 8—with Margaret Knapp, captain, gave a successful dramatic evening last Friday when they acted two plays "Jonny" and "A Precious Pickle". Their treasury is forty dollars richer from the proceeds.

Highlights Of The State House Told To W. Medford Women

The January 16th meeting of the West Medford Woman's club was exceptionally interesting during the business session because of the favored presence of Mrs. George B. Hart, chairman of the Legislative committee of the State Federation and Mrs. Russell Cone, vice-chairman of the same committee.

The afternoon was in charge of Mrs. James W. Sears, chairman of the club's own legislative committee and was devoted to presenting the bills sponsored by the State Federation legislative committee and in which the guests took an active part.

Mrs. Sears very capably explained the several bills which were acted upon and results sent to State chairman.

The club also had as its guest, Mrs. Florence Stuart Blackmoor, past president of the Pittsburg Woman's club.

William E. Mullins, Boston Herald-Traveler representative at the State House, was introduced by the chairman and gave a comprehensive outline of the administration departments maintained at the State House and called attention to historical treasures and their significance.

He left his audience with a deep appreciation of the State capitol.

At the conclusion of the address, members and guests were invited to the tea room where delicious sandwiches and coffee were served by the Hospitality committee.

Mrs. John C. Wilson, treasurer of the club and Mrs. Walter L. Burnham, director and chairman of the Finance committee, poured at an attractively decorated table.

New Scarlet Fever Serum To Be Introduced In Newton By Health Board

That a new serum to prevent the spreading of scarlet fever, successfully tried in Detroit, will be introduced to Massachusetts by the board of health of Newton, was announced by Dr. Francis Curtis, chairman.

The state board of health will prepare the serum from the blood of healthy persons who were recently infected with the disease. Dr. Curtis has sent letters to 40 Newton residents who recently convalesced from the ailment, offering them $5 each for one-half pint of blood. Each must be more than 15 years old.

The serum provides positive protection for three weeks to persons exposed to scarlet fever. This length of time is usually ample to allow the potential infection to run its course.

Dr. Curtis said the Newton health board was spending $2000 a month to provide hospitalization for scarlet fever victims removed from their homes. There were 402 cases in Newton last year, 73 in December, and 50 at the present time. All have been of a mild variety.

Formal At Statler On Saturday

Nearly 1000 young people of Greater Boston will grace the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler when the Saturday Evening Club holds its Mid-Season Party on Saturday.

One of the best functions of the season is expected as the announcement of the engagement of Ruby Newman and his Ritz Carlton Orchestra proves a popular attraction.

Arthur Martel, famous pop artist of the Metropolitan Theater, Boston, will be presented as the honor guest of the evening.

Mrs. Cushman Entertains Bridge Club At Her Home

Mrs. Lester D. Cushman of 89 Truittcroft, Medford, entertained her luncheon bridge club yesterday.

The members attending were Mrs. Karl D. Scates of 2 Boylston terrace, Mrs. Harry B. Kakas of 49 Brooks street, Mrs. Harold M. Lewis of 131 Mystic street, Mrs. Richard W. Logan of 23 Woodland road, West Medford; and Mrs. Sydney T. Guild of 17 Florence street, Mrs. Westbrooke Johnson and Miss Helen Buss of 21 Royall street, Medford.

Mrs. Oliver F. Kidder of Rochester, N. H., was a guest of honor. She and Mr. Kidder are visiting in this city for a few days. Miss Buss won the prize.

MEDFORD THEATRE

"He Learned About Women," an amusing comedy dealing with the adventures of a young man who had $50,000.00, but who had never been kissed, will be shown as the feature of the program at the Medford Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Stuart Erwin, Allison Skipworth, Susan Fleming, Grant Mitchell and Gordon Westcott head the cast.

Erwin, again wearing his famous bewildered expression, plays the role of the wealthy, but un-kissed youngster, who decides it's time he learned a few things about life. On his first excursion into the world he stumbles onto Miss Skipworth, an old actress who has seen better days, and Miss Fleming, a stenographer, whose services are being offered at an auction conducted for the benefit of the jobless. He hires them both.

Then the fun begins. Miss Skipworth craftily grooms the young man for the job of wife, not secretary.

"The Old Dark House" strange drama of one exciting night in a lonely manor, will be shown as the companion picture of the bill. It tells the story of travelers on a weekend vacation who are caught in a howling storm and forced to seek shelter for the night in an ancient, bleak house where a family of strange mental balance live. A night of terror follows and events move swiftly to a powerful climax said to be most impressive for sheer dramatic intensity of any film shown here for a long time.

The usual five act Vaudeville bill will be presented on Friday evening.

Glazier and Mrs. Blanche Cavanaugh.

Elect Officers

The Young Men's class of St. John's Methodist church, met with Rev. Glenn D. Glazier, at the parsonage, 17 Stanley avenue, Monday evening.

Planning activities for the basketball team and arranging for future games, were discussed.

Charles Griffin was elected president; Everett Smyth, treasurer; and Percy Jackson, secretary.

Games were enjoyed following the business session and refreshments were served.

The members present were: Charles Griffin, Everett Smyth, Percy Jackson, Herman Gross, Wellington Brewster, Frazier Kerr, Charles Perkins, Leroy Roblee, Lawrence Cook, Robert Cook and the Reverend Glenn D. Glazier.

Boy's Illusions of Southland Shattered by Chain Gang Term

Fourteen-Year-Old New Jersey High School Student Forced to Work in Chains, Shackled to Criminals, Because He Went Broke Vacationing in South Carolina.

DAVID KRAFT GETS FIRST AID FROM MOTHER.

Hitch-hiking through the Sunny South, with his parents' consent during his Christmas vacation, David Kraft, student at the Central High School, Newark, N. J., went broke in Greenville, S. C. On asking a chance acquaintance where he could get a job to earn a few dollars to get home, David found himself hauled before a judge and sentenced to 30 days in the chain gang in default of $10 fine. Lacking the money, the boy was dressed in convict stripes, ironed fastened on his ankles by a blacksmith and shackled to a bunch of criminals. Thus he was forced to labor with pick and shovel for a week until he succeeded in smuggling a letter to his father in Newark. During that week the boy says he was frequently beaten, and has the bruises to prove it, as well as scarred ankles from the leg-irons. When David's father got in touch with the Greenville authorities, he was informed that his son would be freed on payment of $5, it being explained that the boy had worked out $2 of his fine with a week's work in the chain gang. On the father paying the stipulated amount, plus the boy's bus fare home, David was released. He is now at home under the ministering hand of his mother, Mrs. Julius Kraft. But every time he hears a crooner rendering "Carolina Moon" he laughs ironically and says "the New Jersey moon's good enough for me."

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 18.—There is in this city at least one boy who may be pardoned for a wry face whenever the familiar phrase "Southern hospitality" strikes his ear. He is fourteen-year-old David Kraft, recently returned from the land of belles and counsels with his illusions shattered into tiny fragments.

The way of it was this David, a freshman at Newark Central High School, is, or rather was, one of those boys who had visions of the Sunny South where everybody addressed everybody else as "you-all", where the main business of the day was the consumption of huge slices of luscious watermelon and steaming dishes of possum pie. David envied the red, red robes that flew down to this promised land in Winter, and determined that some day he, too, would head for the land of waving palms and open-hearted hospitality.

Accordingly, when Dave's school was let out for Christmas vacation, the boy went to his parents and asked their permission to take a hitch-hike to that land of his dreams. He had a few dollars saved up and, as he had always been a good boy, able to look after himself, his parents gave their consent. So David went a-voyaging.

The trip down south of the Mason-Dixon line was uneventful. Kindly motorists gave the cheerful-faced lad a lift here and there, and in no time at all, young David found himself in Greenville, S. C., in the heart of the cotton belt. Here, after vainly looking for darkies who bubbled over with enthusiasm and sang songs about their mammy, David found that his money was running low, so he decided it was time to begin his long trek back home. But he thought it would be nice to earn a few dollars before he began his trip. So he asked a man if there was a job open anywhere.

The man asked David where he came from. The boy answered Newark, N. J. Whereupon the man took David into a building, where he was flung into a cell. There were other prisoners there, a murderer and two thieves.

The next morning David was brought before a judge who read off something "so fast that I couldn't understand it", and the next thing David knew he was fined $10 or 30 days in the chain gang. Lacking the $10, the boy, according to his story, was taken to a blacksmith's shop, after he had been attired in a striped convict suit. "I almost died with fright," he said as he described how the blacksmith heated irons and put shackles on both his ankles connected with a short chain.

Half an hour later, chained to a bunch of other prisoners, David was taken to a place called Greer, where he was put to work with pick and shovel in the chain gang.

For a week, the frail boy labored in chains, occasionally being slapped and beaten by guards. And, notwithstanding the fact that he was suffering from flu, he was forced to go to work as usual. However, a kind-hearted guard smuggled out a letter to the boy's father, who immediately got in touch with the authorities. Mr. Kraft was informed that on payment of $8 his son would be freed. It was explained that by working a week in the chain gang, the boy had worked out $2 of his $10 fine.

The money was at once forwarded and David is now at home with reminders of his unpleasant experience in the Southland in the form of deep scars on his ankles, left there by the leg-irons and many ugly, blue-black bruises on his back and arms, which, he avers, are the result of beatings he sustained at the hands of his guards, once when he stopped work to rest, and another time when he was caught speaking to a fellow prisoner.

Plan To Permit Savings Banks To Join Home Loan Bank Not Favored by All

The recommendation by Gov. Ely that changes be made in the savings banks laws of the State to permit these institutions and cooperative banks to become members of the Home Loan Bank of the Federal Government was favored yesterday at a hearing before the Legislative committee on Banks and Banking by Warner M. Allen of the Massachusetts Bank League, Charles E. Jordan of South Shore Cooperative Bank of Weymouth and Philip Hendrick of Arlington.

Rutherford E. Smith, representing the Savings Bank Association, said the banks had considered it but did not see marked practicability in the plan. Savings banks, he said, might well be permitted to invest in bonds of the Home Loan Bank, providing they are made tax exempt.

Charge Bank Stock Was Transferred To President's Daughters

Lowell—Counsel for Arthur Guy, state bank commissioner, at today's hearings in the bill in equity brought by the latter against shareholders of the closed Lowell Trust Company, introduced evidence to show that 350 shares of bank stock had been transferred to two daughters of George M. Harrigan, the bank's president six weeks before the bank closed in December, 1931.

Questioning by Atty. James M. Graham brought out that on Nov. 9, 1931, the date of the transfer of 350 shares of stock to Louise and Elizabeth Harrigan, daughters of the president, deposits totaled $215,355 and withdrawals were $607,729. On seven preceding days withdrawals were greater than deposits, although in reduced ratio.

Hot Dogs May Save School Lunch Counters From Bankruptcy

The lowly hot dog, ousted by dietitians from the menu at seven Lynn schools four years ago, was restored to favor at a meeting of the Lynn school committee in an attempt to save the lunch counters from bankruptcy.

After Ernest C. Stephens, assistant superintendent of schools, had reported a net loss of $1540.70 for the first four months of the school year, it was decided to try to lure the students away from competing private hot dog stands by reintroducing the frankfort sandwich at the senior high schools and five junior high schools.

Harvey S. Gruver, superintendent of schools, submitted budget requests for $1,507.75, an increase of $13,514 from 1932.

Lowell Mayor Cuts Budget $586,449

Mayor Slowey of Lowell has submitted his 1933 municipal budget to the city council calling for a reduction of $586,449 from the departmental appropriations of 1932. His budget is $97,638 higher than the budget recommendations of the finance commission, which aimed at a $7 cut in the tax rate.

Eliminations of vacations with pay for city employees are included in the mayor's figures, as well as substantial reductions in interest payments on temporary loans and in appropriations for departments that come under the general heading of public welfare and charity.

From an appropriation last year of $1,027,824, the school department is cut to $885,000. The mayor's figures for all public welfare divisions total $531,575, representing a slash of more than $217,000 from 1932 appropriations. His figure also cuts under the recommendations of the finance commission for these departments by $50,000.

In a communication to the council the mayor explains some of his figures. In respect to public welfare he said he felt justified in reducing the appropriation "because I believe economies can be worked out in this department and I also believe that legislation will be enacted to relieve cities and towns from carrying this charity load."

Outstanding increases in the mayor's budget over that of the finance commission were of the police, fire, streets and building departments, where he raised the figures to the extent of $147,000. Of that amount $105,000 was in the street department, where, he said, the extra money will provide needed employment and "will put the city on the same basis as other cities of its size and character."

Holds First Meeting

The Poluphilian club of St. Clement's church will hold its first meeting of the year on Thursday. The new officers, elected at the last meeting of 1932, will preside. They are: Paul Broderick, president; Kathleen Donahue, vice president; Dorothy Garrity, secretary; Rev. J. J. Twiss, spiritual director.

The retiring officers being: John Geary, president; Alice Grout, vice president; Katherine Foley, secretary.

The Poluphilian club, although formed in the fall of last year, enjoyed a successful and active year. The first activity was a play called "Thirteen Plus", put on for the benefit of St. Clement's High School Athletic Association. Other activities were two outings during the summer months, and at the close of the year an informal dance was held at Oak Manor, Melrose.

The Poluphilian club extends an invitation to all the single parishioners of St. Clement's church, of the age of twenty or over, to become members.

AMERICAN WAR MOTHERS

Medford Chapter 5, American War Mothers, will meet on Friday afternoon at the First Methodist church at 2 o'clock. At this meeting plans will be completed for the State Convention of the American War Mothers which will be held in the church on Friday Jan. 27th. The convention will open at 10:30 o'clock and there will be a luncheon.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 18.—Here is some red meat for your cinema diet.

As soon as he completes "The White Sister," Clark Gable is to co-star with Wallace Beery in the Soviet story that has been knocking around Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for some months now. Perhaps this explains why the studio turned down Clark's request for the lead in "Clear All Wires," which also had a Russian locale.

"Soviet," the only name for the new film to date, has given M-G-M writers a good deal of trouble. The final and successful treatment must be partially credited to Frank Capra, Columbia's star director, who is being loaned for the one picture.

Capra is the man who turned out the best of the Jack Holt-Ralph Graves melodramas. He is one of the screen's outstanding directors of action stories.

Never a John Barrymore picture that doesn't add to the legends of the actor's wit.

The other day at R-K-O John was doing a scene for "Topaze." The script called for him to use one of those large desk cigar lighters. Five times the actor crooked his thumb, but no spark was forthcoming.

Finally, he threw the thing down.

"Here!" he exclaimed. "Give me a box of matches. They'll think I'm playing a hitch-hiker in this picture."

HOLLYWOOD PARADE

It's all very secret, but you can look for Charlie Chaplin to make another court move about his children in the not too distant future. The comedian still goes everywhere with Paulette Goddard. The two of them were at the Pasadena Community Playhouse the other evening to see the premiere of Ben W. Levy's play, "The Devil Passes."

Loretta Young and Lyle Talbot were another film couple at this opening. Also Diana Wynyard. The English actress, you recall, was doing this on Broadway when she was signed for her sensational role in the movie.

Don't know just how sensational it plans it, but Upton Sinclair is to write a novel about the University of Southern California's Notre Dame football game. . . . Wonder what Master of Ceremonies Teddy Joyce is telling Jean Harlow over the long distance telephones these evenings? . . . The Northampton Theatre in the home town of the late Calvin Coolidge is the only municipalpally owned showhouse in the country. Sidney Blackmer now working out here for Paramount, once talked to Coolidge about it at the White House. The former President said he was especially pleased with it as it then made enough money to pay the expenses of the city park.

Lillian Harvey, Fox's new foreign star, rates a bungalow at the studio. It's the old songwriter's building remodeled and redecorated. . . . The third important part in "The Story of Temple Drake" ("Sanctuary") will be played by Preston Foster. Paramount still awaits a Hays office okay on this script. . . . Poor Tom Mix. He's gone to Ere Pa, to defend another of those suits brought by the 101 Ranch Wild West Show. Tom has had as many subpoenas in his time as Jack Dempsey.

Word from Buddy Rogers. He's added three weeks to his personal appearance tour. That makes nine in all. One stop on the new trip will be Kansas City, Buddy's home town. He hasn't played it in four years and they are planning quite a reception. . . . That good news about Helen Twelvetrees. Her test for the Chevalier picture, was so good that Paramount not only signed her for the part but added a long term contract.

It will be Ken Maynard who replaces Tom Mix as Universal's western star. He has signed for a series of six pictures.

Young Alan Livingston, University of British Columbia graduate, burst into tears on his first day as an actor at the Fox studio. Just a minute, though; he had a good reason. The studio makeup department plucked dozens of hairs from his naturally bushy eyebrows.
